DISCUSSION: The employment-based immigrant visa petition was denied by the Director, Nebraska Service Center, and is now before the Administrative Appeals Office (AAO) on appeal. The appeal will be dismissed.

The petitioner is an IT solutions and consulting company. It seeks to employ the beneficiary permanently in the United States as a database administrator pursuant to section 203(b)(2) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (the Act), 8 U.S.C. § 1153(b)(2). As required by statute, a labor certification accompanied the petition. The director's decision concluded that the beneficiary does not have a U.S. bachelor's degree or foreign equivalent degree as required by the terms of the labor certification. The director denied the petition accordingly.

In a request for evidence (RFE) dated December 28, 2011, the AAO requested evidence to establish that the petitioner has the ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage beginning on the priority date of the visa petition and continuing up to the present.<sup>1</sup> Specifically, the petitioner was instructed to submit Forms W-2 or 1099 (if any) for the beneficiary for 2008, 2009, and 2010, and tax returns or audited financial statements for the petitioner for 2008, 2009, and 2010. This office also requested additional information to establish that the beneficiary possessed the required education for the offered position as set forth in the labor certification.

This office allowed the petitioner 45 days in which to respond to the RFE. In the RFE, the AAO specifically alerted the petitioner that failure to respond to the RFE could result in dismissal of the appeal. The failure to submit requested evidence that precludes a material line of inquiry shall be grounds for denying the petition. See 8 C.F.R. § 103.2(b)(14). More than 45 days have passed and the petitioner has failed to respond with proof that it has the ability to pay the beneficiary the proffered wage and that the beneficiary possessed the required education for the offered position. Thus, the appeal will be dismissed as abandoned.

The burden of proof in these proceedings rests solely with the petitioner. Section 291 of the Act, 8 U.S.C. § 1361. The petitioner has not met that burden.

ORDER: The appeal is dismissed.
